evocos supplies new client in orthopaedics market with its event management solution

15th September, Guildford, Surrey: evocos, is proud to announce that it is soon to supply a global leader in the orthopaedics market with its event management software. Their client runs hundreds of European based education and training events each year, targeting surgeons and theatre nurses and required a comprehensive solution to manage these delegates and events efficiently.

evocos is a leading provider of event management software and this new contract will see their position in the European market strengthen. Using the evocos solution, their latest client will manage over 5000 delegates per year across all major European countries.”

Kate Oxton, Marketing Manager at evocos describes the benefits the client will see from the evocos event management software: “Previously our client was using an event management solution that had been designed in-house. This linked directly into their database, and while it performed the majority of the tasks required, it did not comply with medical governance compliance regulations. Using the evocos event management software means that our client will now be fully compliant, as well as gaining many other features from our extensively designed application.”

The evocos event management solution is due to go live at the client site at the beginning of November, and will allow them to perform the following tasks:

- Invitation/Request Management
- Event Management
- Venue, supplier & resource management
- Delegate & booking management
- Feedback management
- Payment management
- Management information (reporting) and business intelligence

It was also vital the evocos event management software was able to fully integrate into the client’s corporate website; providing a seamless user experience. The evocos event management solution is one of the few on the market to offer full integration with a range of back-end systems such as ERPs, CRMs and sales management applications.
