Event Management Service Now Offered From evocos

10th February 2011, Guildford, Surrey: Event management software author, evocos, is proud to announce the launch of a new event management service. 'evocos Delegates' launches today and is targeted at companies wanting assistance in the management of their events.

evocos Delegates is a fully managed delegate registration service. For a flat fee, evocos will build a website branded to the clients corporate standards, will send out branded personalised e-invitations to a targeted list of prospects, and will manage the whole delegate registration process online. The process will be completed by the management of communication to delegates regarding their registration and any other event information.

Commenting on the new service, Kate Oxton, Marketing Manager for evocos said "evocos Delegates was borne out of an increase in requests for this kind of service. Event managers have an extremely tough job on their hands, and using a service like evocos Delegates frees up their time to concentrate on other aspects of managing an event. evocos Delegates customers will benefit from the use of the evocos event software, without actually having to purchase it. This is a great compromise for many companies who have a requirement for event software, but are having to work with tightened budgets."

evocos Delegates customers can also access data and reports regarding their campaign and have the ability to quickly and easily create delegate badges with or without personalised barcodes.
